

KAIJU BIG BATTEL

The Kaiju Big Battel is a tongue-in-cheek hybrid of American pro-wrestling, Japanese monster-movie mayhem and lowbrow pop culture. The Kaiju universe maintains a roster of approximately 30 monsters, including a blue alien named Sky Deviler, a factory worker-turned-soup can called Kung Fu Chicken Noodle, a dirty hare-sage dubbed Disco Bunny, Ucho Chu the Space Bug and a despicable square-headed mad scientist known as Dr. Cube. Battel's typically take place in a standard-size wrestling ring, lined with miniature cityscapes and random Japanese movie props. They are currently creating a huge stir in the American underground with their mix of WWF, Godzilla and Hello Kitty kitsch. Fused had the pleasure of speaking to the not at all square Dr. Cube in his first ever UK interview.

FUSED: For those in the United Kingdom who have never attended a Kaiju Big Battel event how would you describe it?

DR CUBE: Simply put Kaiju Big Battel is live monster mayhem. Two or more monsters engage in a Battel for supremacy in a cityscape and the first monster to be pinned loses. That's all you really need to know. There are also other distractions for the ADD crowd, such as live music, video screens and what not. Many humans see Kaiju as an excuse to scream at the top of their lungs, flirt with the opposite sex, and drink excessive amounts of alcohol. But believe me, it is not all fun and games; Kaiju Big Battel is a struggle of good versus evil.

FUSED: Where are you originally from, are you earth-based?

DR CUBE: Even though I can't stand the wretched human race, I must admit I am of this planet.

FUSED: How did you discover the world of Kaiju or did it discover you?

DR CUBE: Kaiju Big Battel has always existed. I merely happened upon it, when it was in a rather despicable state. I must say, and made it better by adding to it an element of danger comparable to none.

FUSED: Could you tell us a little bit about the fantastic Cube helmet that you wear? Does it serve a practical purpose or is it purely aesthetic? Do you ever remove it?

DR CUBE: Every thing serves a purpose. The helmet serves multiple purposes: protection, aesthetic, and others. Kaiju fans are much like lemmings; should one jump to its death, the rest will surely follow suit. They are weak and stupid. I wear the helmet to protect the viewers from a visage so beautiful it would drive them to mass suicide because of sheer disgust in themselves.

FUSED: Recent Kaiju events have incorporated musical acts such as Anti-Pop Consortium and Les Savy Fav, what do you make of all this? Do you enjoy their music, if not what kind of music do you enjoy?

DR CUBE: No, absolutely not. I despise all popular music, every genre, including pretentious art rock like Les Savy Fav and indie hip hop Anti-pop Consortium. How very ironic! I have to give those boys a little pat on the back for the ridiculous name of their "anti-pop" pop group. Lets get things straight, the music at the Big Battel is to keep simple-minded humans engaged. Nonetheless, classical music is the ultimate expression.

FUSED: Throughout history there have been many evil leaders/wrestlers/fictional characters. Do you take inspiration from anyone in particular?

DR CUBE: I am my own inspiration. It all comes from inside me. I certainly wouldn't follow in the footsteps of any "evil leaders" because they all fail miserably over time. Save for maybe George W. Bush. Now, there is some crafty evil. Keep an eye on that boy! He has potential, but his greed and near-sightedness will be his downfall, and his feeble speeches to the American public don't help his cause either. One of my goals is to give the human race a proper evil role model. I do evil right!

FUSED: What do you do to help yourself unwind when not wrestling? Do you partake in any hobbies or pastimes?

DR CUBE: Ah yes, I have quite a few pastime activities, although I certainly would not classify any of them as hobbies. Give me some credit! Hobbies are for young boys and girls, and old men. I am neither; I am the leader of the most powerful evil force within Kaiju Big Battel! But yes, I enjoy my pastimes; stitching ears to lips and such. Also, I enjoy collapsing third world countries' economies with the click of a button by adjusting my online stock portfolio. E trade is fabulous. What a fun little scam.

Ahh, but gene splicing in my basement is my real passion. All the internet nonsense is just a fad. It was so fun to see the "e-bottom" fall out and watch all those hungry rats scurble in a panic.

You humans really do amuse me with the commercial games you play! Did you really think that you could just add the letter "e" or "i" in front of every product and service to save your capitalistic economy? By God, you have got to realise that capitalism is a failed economic system. And although it may be the best system you have got, it is a bankrupt system. Trust me, I know. I profit from such failures and I wouldn't have it any other way. Why do you think the American government would rather pay $665.99 for a new cesspool pump instead of $0.0065 to maintain it in working order? And I know, I own those government contracts for all those sewer pumps. I digress, my apologies.

FUSED: What are your feelings on some of the smaller scale US wrestling federations: WWF, WCW, do you ever watch them?

DR CUBE: I never watch TV. It is the perfect waste of time and will ultimately be the downfall of modern man. As for wrestling federations, they make me laugh. How could I avoid hysterics when seeing bunch of men in tights rolling around on a mat for the enjoyment of the lowly American masses. Ha, that is all I have to say regarding the foolishness of American pro-wrestling. Ha!

FUSED: How did you learn to wrestle, are you self-taught?

DR CUBE: Are you thick in the skull? Again, I do NOT wrestle. I engage in Battel. I'm fighting a war for world domination, not dancing around in tights for glorified carnies! Are you a professional journalist?

FUSED: What did you do before Kaiju Big Battel?

DR CUBE: I'm not sure you if your limited intellect could comprehend my childhood. It wasn't average because of my extraordinary intelligence. I never played with Tinker Toys or Lincoln Logs like you must have. I enjoyed experiments with osmosis, synthesis and gene splicing. My first successful creation was a spider crossed with a green pepper. I of course graduated to larger scale and more successful projects such as my beloved henchman Hell Monkey, and later the fierce Dino Kang. But the technology is too advanced for your comprehension. After all aren't human scientist only now discovering strategies for human cloning? Aren't you Brits still fooling around with sheep? My you English are a curious lot.

FUSED: Could you tell us about some of the high points during your Kaiju career?

DR CUBE: When you are on your way to world domination, like myself, everyday is a high point.

FUSED: Could you now tell us about some of the low points you have had during your career?

DR CUBE: Losing monsters in Battels is always trying. I lost two of my oldest creations in the past year. My green terror-lizard, Midori No Kaiju was killed at Shogun Showdown and Multi Moog was lost at Matsuri Mass Mayhem this past April. I might be an evil mad genius but I still feel a dull sort of ache when I lose a monster in the heat of Battel. Given that I made these awesome creations, I feel as though I lose a little bit of myself when they die off.

FUSED: You actually create your own companions (minions) could you tell us a little bit about the process of constructing an evil minion? Any failures/successes?

DR CUBE: Too many to know for sure, besides I prefer not to disclose the process for security purposes. But, I've been collecting them for a long time. They're all successes in their own way, even if a minion experiment fails, I learn from my mistakes. I subscribe to positive thinking, as any man of destiny such as myself must do in this day and age.

FUSED: What kind of relationship do you have with your minions? Is it purely a Master/minion relationship or do you consider them friends?

DR CUBE: They are not my friends. They are instruments of my own design. And, no, I do not fear them. Why do humans tend to fear their own tools? The computer is your friend, and so is the stick shift.

FUSED: Who are your enemies/nemeses in Kaiju Big Battel; can you tell us a little bit about them?

DR CUBE: The biggest thorns in my side are the Kaiju Heroes including Silver Potato, Slow Feng, and American Beetle, as well as the other contending evil forces within Kaiju. Team Space Bug, which is a poor excuse for a bunch of alien insects, operates like a gang of hoodlums. I have nothing positive to say about them. Moving on...

FUSED: What do you ultimately hope to achieve within the realms Kaiju Big Battel?

DR CUBE: I want to rule the Kaiju Big Battel so I can rule the world. Doesn't everyone want to rule the world? If you do not want to rule the world, you truly are an idiot. Have you no idea of how vast and complex the world is? Isn't that intriguing: to have that much power harnessed toward maliciousness? The possibilities are endless. I never understood why the British feared totalitarianism. Some of the most creative regimes in political history have been dictatorships.

FUSED: Have you ever visited the United Kingdom? If not do you have any plans? Are there any plans to bring Kaiju Big Battel to the UK?

DR CUBE: I don't drink or care to look at stone structures in the rain. But, since the UK does has a few cityscapes worthy of a Big Battel, I could see some live monster mayhem erupting there in the future.

FUSED: Do you have any closing comments?

DR CUBE: I am glad the interview is over. Now, go buy my t-shirt on kaiju.com. The online Kaiju Mail takes Euro, pounds, anything that can be melted down. Good day!

Interview and Graphics by New Tasty

CLUB SANDWICH

Name: Club Sandwich
Type: Deli-style hero
Height: Lucky 88 inches
Weight: 3 heart attacks
Serving Size: 3,000 individuals
Calories: 110000 upon billions
Total Fat: 10000 upon billions
Attack: Cold cut, deli slices, triple deck hot, inspiration date delivery

Deposited: Mario, do-gooder. So badly wants to save the world he letting very starving children watch him.

Win/Lose: 5/2
Allies: Silver Potato, Gentle Jin, Slow Feng
Enemies: Kung-Fu Chicken, Noodle, Dr. Cube, Mung Wun

Deposited: Mario, do-gooder. So badly wants to save the world he letting very starving children watch him.

Win/Lose: 5/2
Allies: Silver Potato, Gentle Jin, Slow Feng
Enemies: Kung-Fu Chicken, Noodle, Dr. Cube, Mung Wun

MUNG WUN

Name: Mung Wun
Type: Battering space bug
Height: 75 inches
Weight: 1700 bags of trash, doggieback, mackering one late tip

Deposited: Mario, do-gooder. So badly wants to save the world he letting very starving children watch him.

Win/Lose: 5/2
Allies: Silver Potato, Gentle Jin, Slow Feng
Enemies: Kung-Fu Chicken, Noodle, Dr. Cube, Mung Wun

NOODLE

Name: Noodle
Type: Battering space bug
Height: 75 inches
Weight: 1700 bags of trash, doggieback, mackering one late tip

Deposited: Mario, do-gooder. So badly wants to save the world he letting very starving children watch him.

Win/Lose: 5/2
Allies: Silver Potato, Gentle Jin, Slow Feng
Enemies: Kung-Fu Chicken, Noodle, Dr. Cube, Mung Wun

ANTANOS

Name: Antanos
Type: Battering space bug
Height: 75 inches
Weight: 1700 bags of trash, doggieback, mackering one late tip

Deposited: Mario, do-gooder. So badly wants to save the world he letting very starving children watch him.

Win/Lose: 5/2
Allies: Silver Potato, Gentle Jin, Slow Feng
Enemies: Kung-Fu Chicken, Noodle, Dr. Cube, Mung Wun

Kaiju Big Battel

by Newtasty

Fused Magazine, UK, July, 2002

The Kaiju Big Battel is a tongue-in-cheek hybrid of American pro-wrestling, Japanese monster-movie mayhem and lowbrow pop culture. The Kaiju universe maintains a roster of approximately 30 monsters, including a blue alien named Sky Deviler, a factory worker-turned-soup can called Kung Fu Chicken Noodle, a dirty hare-sage dubbed Disco Bunny, Ucho Chu the Space Bug and a despicable square headed mad scientist known as Dr. Cube. Battel's typically take place in a standard-size wrestling ring, lined with miniature cityscapes and random Japanese movie props. They are currently creating a huge stir in the American underground with their mix of WWF, Godzilla and Hello Kitty kitsch. Fused had the pleasure of speaking to the not at all square Dr. Cube in his first ever UK interview.

FUSED: For those in the United Kingdom who have never attended a Kaiju Big Battel event how would you describe it?

DR CUBE: Simply put Kaiju Big Battel is live monster mayhem. Two or more monsters engage in a Battel for supremacy in a cityscape and the first monster to be pinned loses. That's all your really need to know. There are also other distractions for the ADD crowd, such as live music, video screens, and what not. Many humans see Kaiju as an excuse to scream at the top of their lungs, flirt with the opposite sex, and drink excessive amounts of alcohol. But believe me, it is not all fun and games, Kaiju Big Battel is a struggle of good versus evil.

FUSED: Where are you originally from, are you earth based?

DR CUBE: Even though I can't stand the wretched human race, I must admit I am of this planet.

FUSED: How did you discover the world of Kaiju or did it discover you?

DR CUBE: Kaiju Big Battel has always existed. I merely happened upon it, when it was in a rather despicable state, I must say, and made it better by adding to it an element of danger comparable to none.

FUSED: Could you tell us a little bit about the fantastic Cube helmet that you wear? Does it serve a practical purpose or is it purely aesthetic? Do you ever remove it?

DR CUBE: Every thing serves a purpose. The helmet serves multiple purposes; protection, aesthetic, and others. Kaiju fans are much like lemmings; should one jump to its death, the rest will surely follow suit. They are weak and stupid. I wear the helmet to protect the viewers from a visage so beautiful it would drive them to mass suicide because of sheer disgust in themselves.

FUSED: Recent Kaiju events have incorporated musical acts such as Anti-Pop Consortium and Le Savy Fav, what do you make of all this? Do you enjoy their music, if not what kind of music do you enjoy?

DR CUBE: No, absolutely not. I despise all popular music, every genre, including pretentious art rock like Les Savy Fav and indie hip hop. Anti-pop Consortium. How very ironic! I have to give those boys a little pat on the back for the ridiculous name of their "anti-pop" pop group. Lets get things straight, the music at the Big Battel is to keep simple-minded humans engaged. Nonetheless, classical music is the ultimate expression.

FUSED: Throughout history there have been many evil leaders/wrestlers/fictional characters. Do you take inspiration from anyone in particular?

DR CUBE: I am my own inspiration. It all comes from inside me. I certainly wouldn't follow in the footsteps of any "evil leaders," because they all fail miserably over time. Save for maybe George W. Bush. Now, there is some crafty evil. Keep an eye on that boy! He has potential, but his greed and near-sightedness will be his downfall, and his feeble speeches to the American public don't help his cause either. One of my goals is to give the human race a proper evil role model. I do evil right!

FUSED: What do you do to help yourself unwind when not wrestling? Do you partake in any hobbies or pastimes?

DR CUBE: Ah yes, I have quite a few pastime activities, although I certainly would not classify any of them as hobbies. Give me some credit! Hobbies are for young boys and girls, and old men. I am neither; I am the leader of the most powerful evil force within Kaiju Big Battel! But yes, I enjoy my pastimes; stitching ears to lips and such. Also, I enjoy collapsing third world countries' economies with the click of a button by adjusting my online stock portfolio. E trade is fabulous. What a fun little scam. Ahh, but gene splicing in my basement is my real passion. All the Internet nonsense is just a fad. It was so fun to see the "e-bottom" fall out and watch all those hungry rats scramble in a panic. You humans really do amuse me with the commercial games you play! Did you really think that you could just add the letter "e" or "i" in front of every product and service to save your capitalistic economy? By God, you have got to realize that capitalism is a failed economic system. And although it may be the best system you have got, it is a bankrupt system. Trust me, I know. I profit from such failures and I wouldn't have it any other way. Why do you think the American government would rather pay $665.99 for a new cesspool pump instead of $0.0065 to maintain it in working order. And I know, I own those government contracts for all those sewer pumps. I digress, my apologies.

FUSED: What are your feelings on some of the smaller scale US wrestling federations: WWF, WCW, do you ever watch them?

DR CUBE: I never watch TV. It is the perfect waste of time and will ultimately be the downfall of modern man. As for wrestling federations, they make me laugh. How could I avoid hysterics when seeing bunch of men in tights rolling around on a mat for the enjoyment of the lowly American masses. Ha, that is all I have to say regarding the foolishness of American pro-wrestling. Ha!

FUSED: How did you learn to wrestle, are you self-taught?

DR CUBE: Are you thick in the skull? Again, I do NOT wrestle. I engage in Battel. I'm fighting a war for world domination, not dancing around in tights for glorified carnies! Are you a professional journalist?

FUSED: What did you do before Kaiju Big Battel?

DR CUBE: I'm not sure you if your limited intellect could comprehend my childhood. It wasn't average because of my extraordinary intelligence. I never played with Tinker Toys or Lincoln Logs like you must have. I enjoyed experiments with osmosis, synthesis and gene splicing. My first successful creation was a spider crossed with a green pepper. I of course graduated to larger scale and more successful projects such as my beloved henchman Hell Monkey, and later the fierce Dino Kang. But the technology is too advanced for your comprehension. After all aren't human scientist only now discovering strategies for human cloning? Aren't you Brits still fooling around with sheep. My you English are a curious lot.

FUSED: Could you tell us about some of the high points during your Kaiju career?

DR CUBE: When you are on your way to world domination, like myself, everyday is a high point.

FUSED: Could you now tell us about some of the low points you have had during your career?

DR CUBE: Losing monsters in Battels is always trying. I lost two of my oldest creations in the past year. My green terror-lizard, Midori No Kaiju was killed at Shogun Showdown and Multi Moog was lost at Matsuri Mass Mayhem this past April. I might be an evil mad genius but I still feel a dull sort of ache when I lose a monster in the heat of Battel. Given that I made these awesome creations, I feel as though I lose a little bit of myself when they die off.

FUSED: You actually create your own companions (minions) could you tell us a little bit about the process of constructing an evil minion? Any failures/successes?

DR CUBE: Too many to know for sure, Besides I prefer not to disclose the process for security purposes. But, I've been collecting them for a long time. They're all successes in their own way, even if a minion experiment fails, I learn from my mistakes. I subscribe to positive thinking, as any man of destiny such as myself must do in this day and age.

FUSED: What kind of relationship do you have with your minions? Is it purely a master/minion relationship or do you consider them friends?

DR CUBE: They are not my friends. They are instruments of my own design. And, no, I do not fear them. Why do humans tend to fear their own tools? The computer is your friend, and so is the stick shift.

FUSED: Who are your enemies/nemeses in Kaiju Big Battel; can you tell us a little bit about them?

DR CUBE: The biggest thorns in my side are the Kaiju Heroes including Silver Potato, Slow Feng, and American Beetle, as well as the other contending evil forces within Kaiju. Team Space Bug, which is a poor excuse for a bunch of alien insects, operates like a gang of hoodlums. I have nothing positive to say about them. Moving on...

FUSED: What do you ultimately hope to achieve within the realms Kaiju Big Battel?

DR CUBE: I want to rule the Kaiju Big Battel so I can rule the world. Doesn't everyone want to rule the world? If you do not want to rule the world, you truly are an idiot. Have you no idea of how vast and complex the world is? Isn't that intriguing; to have that much power harnessed toward maliciousness? The possibilities are endless. I never understood why the British feared totalitarianism. Some of the most creative regimes in political history have been dictatorships.

FUSED: Have you ever visited the United Kingdom? If not do you have any plans? Are there any plans to bring Kaiju Big Battel to the UK?

DR CUBE: I don't drink or care to look at stone structures in the rain. But, since the UK does has a few cityscapes worthy of a Big Battel, I could see some live monster mayhem erupting there in the future.

FUSED: Do you have any closing comments?

DR CUBE: I am glad the interview is over. Now, go buy my t-shirt on kaiju.com. The online Kaiju Mall takes Euro, pounds, anything that can be melted down. Good day!